Task Pad is a time and project management tool that covers many aspects of your life. It does this with three main sections, each dedicated to a different category. These sections work together to give you a complete overview of your finances, both personal and work-related. Let's analyze the list of all the features that this Money Manager has to offer. Task management The task management section gives you a graphical view of tasks you need to get done in your day. This is the primary purpose of the application, and you can assign the tasks in different time frames. For example, you might want to manage your personal tasks by the hour, while business tasks will be split into two groups, one for Monday to Friday and the other for weekends. The second part of the task management section is the task list, where all the tasks are listed. You can create, edit, delete, and attach notes to them. Although you have a general overview of your tasks, the process of managing them may take some time, since there is a lot of work that needs to be done manually. You can assign dates for multiple tasks if you wish. Monitoring If you use the item list regularly, then you already know that what makes the application unique is the monitoring section. It's a sidebar that is always present, and which can be dropped by using its button. The source component of the monitoring section is the item list, where all the monitored items are listed. Each one is represented by a single line, with the status, the type of the item, when it was last executed, and the most recent activity. The monitoring section also features the time breakdown, which gives you a detailed overview of your time spent on specific areas. You can analyze this breakdown by the hour, by the day, or by the week, in total or by a certain category. Additionally, you can group the monitored items by categories, and you can choose to monitor them either automatically or manually. The custom view is where you can add items that cannot be added through the main interface. There are three types of items that you can monitor: projects, tasks, and events. Projects are where you'll find the development cycles of the tasks you're tracking. You can create and edit projects with ease, and assign dates to them. Tasks are where you'll find all the daily tasks of the project. You can create, edit, delete, and assign dates to them.
