1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to devices for cutting glass and, more particularly, to a hand-held glass cutting tool for cutting a glass article such as a vase, or the like, in the preferred embodiment. 2. Discussion of the Prior Art Heretofore, there have been a number of different types of glass cutting tools which are utilized for cutting glass, especially glass articles such as a vase, or the like. In addition, there has been proposed a vase forming apparatus which utilizes a drill in which the cutting bit is operative to drill holes in the bottom of the vase. The vase forming apparatus of this type utilizes a machine-powered drill to cut the top portion of the vase with the cutting bit of the drill being placed within the vase. Typically, the bottom portion of the vase is left uncut, in order to retain the shape of the vase when the vase is subsequently formed and blown. The cutting bit in the drill of this type is typically operated at a relatively high speed to avoid generating sparks which can cause glass breakage. As will be seen, the present invention is not only directed to a hand-held glass cutting tool for cutting glass, but also to a hand-held glass cutting tool in which a small electric motor is utilized to drive a cutting bit or blade which is operative to cut the glass.Q: Will my table get duplicated when I use the pivot table? Q: VB.NET how to increase size of the form in a Windows application I'm writing an application for my school. I have 4 textboxes and a listview in my application. I don't know how to increase the size of the form when I resize it. I want the form to be as big as the screen and text to remain in view when resizing. This is my form and a screen shot of it. For resizing the form I have added a button in the form Private Sub Button1_Click(sender As Object, e As EventArgs) Handles Button1.Click RaisePropertyChanged(Nothing) End Sub and this is my property that is being changed in the form Public Property Height() As Integer Get Return TextBox1.Text.Length + TextBox2.Text.Length + TextBox3.Text.Length + TextBox4.Text.Length + ListView1.Height End Get Set(ByVal value As Integer) RaisePropertyChanged("Height") End Set End Property the problem I can't call RaisePropertyChanged for the ListView1.Height is it possible to do it if I do this in the form constructor or is there another way to make the form as big as the screen? A: In the constructor of your form set the SizeMode property to AutoSize. This should keep your form proportional to the screen size. What Research Data Can (and Cannot) Tell Us About the Housing Recovery Interest in the rental market is growing. Renting was the fastest growing segment of the housing market in 2013. This is the first time this has happened since the early 1960s, and is the longest sustained recovery period for this segment of the market. According to the latest numbers from the U.S. Census Bureau (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2013), rents in the United States increased by 3.4 percent between January 2012 and January 2013. Overall rents have increased in 42 of the 50 states since the beginning of the Great Recession. This article looks at some of the data that has been collected about the nation's rental market and how it has fared during the recovery. In the period from 2008 to 2009 rents decreased
